Strong With Mila — Website Design Project Requirements

1. Project overview

Brand name: Strong With Mila
Founder: Mila
Location: Berlin
Contact email: strongwithmila@gmail.com
Instagram: @strongwithmila
Business type: Women-focused strength, personal training, nutrition coaching and cycle-aware support.

The website should function as a simple but polished landing page for a women's strength coaching offer in Berlin. It should feel warm, intelligent, feminine, evidence-informed and personal — not like a generic gym or transformation-coach website.

The first version should be lightweight and conversion-focused. It does not need a blog, booking system or complex backend yet. The main goal is to explain the offer clearly, build trust, and encourage visitors to apply for one of the limited founding client spots or send an enquiry.

2. Brand positioning

Core positioning

Strong With Mila helps women in Berlin build strength, structure and confidence through onsite personal training, realistic nutrition coaching and cycle-aware support.

Brand promise

A supportive, structured coaching experience for women who want to train, eat and feel stronger without extremes.

Brand personality

The website should feel:

- clean
- warm
- intelligent
- calm
- feminine
- evidence-informed

- supportive
- personal
- structured
- not medical
- not “gym bro”
- not extreme transformation-focused

Tone of voice

Clear, grounded and warm.
Educational, but not clinical.
Empowering, but not cheesy.
Personal, but not overly vulnerable.

Avoid language like:

- “fix your hormones”
- “balance your hormones naturally”
- “shred fat”
- “get your dream body”
- “detox”
- “summer body”
- “no excuses”
- “cycle syncing rules for every woman”

Preferred language:

- “cycle-aware”
- “realistic nutrition”
- “strength and structure”
- “body literacy”
- “train with your body, not against it”
- “without extremes”
- “support, strength and consistency”
- “evidence-informed coaching”
- “macro-informed meal structure”
- “energy, recovery and progress”

3. Target audience

Primary audience

English-speaking women in Berlin, roughly 28–45, who:

- want to start or return to strength training
- feel unsure about gym form, posture or training structure

- want nutrition support without restrictive dieting
- have struggled with consistency, weight management or routines
- are curious about cycle-aware training and nutrition
- want a coach who feels relatable, supportive and non-judgmental
- prefer personal, onsite guidance rather than generic online plans

Emotional needs

Visitors should feel:

- “She understands me.”
- “This feels structured but not intimidating.”
- “This is not another diet.”
- “I can ask beginner questions here.”
- “This feels scientific but still human.”
- “This is made for women like me.”

---

4. Core offer

Main offer name

Strong Through Your Cycle
4-week women’s strength and nutrition coaching in Berlin.

Offer description

A 4-week coaching package combining onsite personal training, nutrition coaching, weekly digital check-ins and cycle-aware support.

This is a limited founding client offer for the first small group of women who want to test the method and receive a reduced founding-client price in exchange for feedback and testimonials.

Package structure

1. Digital intake call

2. Conversation

3. Anamnesis
4. Goal setting
5. Lifestyle review
6. Training history
7. Nutrition history
8. Cycle and energy patterns

9. Measurement protocol

10. Onsite nutrition coaching + first training session

11. Nutrition coaching conversation

12. Realistic meal suggestions
13. Macro-informed meal structure
14. Protein, energy and food-group guidance
15. First guided strength session

16. Movement and posture observation

17. Two more onsite training sessions in the same week

18. Technique correction

19. Posture and movement coaching
20. Strength foundation
21. Confidence building

22. Exercise selection and progression

23. Weekly digital check-ins

24. Training progress

25. Nutrition adherence
26. Energy
27. Recovery
28. Cycle observations
29. Adjustments

30. Questions and accountability

31. Final onsite progress session

32. Strength check

33. Movement review
34. Progress measurements
35. Goal review
36. Next-step recommendations

Important wording note

Avoid calling it a strict “meal plan.”
Use:

- meal suggestions
- meal structure
- macro-informed guidance
- nutrition targets
- food priorities
- realistic nutrition support

5. Website goals

The website should:

1. Explain what Strong With Mila is.
2. Communicate that this is women-focused coaching.
3. Make the offer easy to understand.
4. Build trust through Mila’s personal story.
5. Show the difference between this and generic PT.
6. Clarify that it includes onsite sessions in Berlin plus digital check-ins.
7. Encourage the visitor to apply, enquire or join the limited founding client list.
8. Look polished enough to support a premium beta/launch price.
9. Work beautifully on mobile.

---

6. Suggested website structure

For version 1, build a single-page landing page with anchor navigation.

Navigation

- Home
- Method
- Package
- About
- FAQ
- Apply / Enquire

Sticky nav optional, but useful.

Page sections

Section 1 — Hero

Purpose

Immediately explain who this is for and what is being offered.

Suggested copy

Headline:
Women’s strength & nutrition coaching in Berlin — built around your body, your cycle and your real life.

Subheadline:
Onsite personal training, realistic nutrition support and weekly check-ins for women who want to build strength, structure and confidence without extremes.

CTA button:
Apply for a limited founding client spot

Secondary CTA:
See how it works

Visual direction

- Soft cream background
- Deep plum headline
- Small moon/cycle symbol
- Optional portrait or abstract body-line illustration
- Avoid typical gym action shots
- Use calm, premium spacing

Section 2 — Problem / resonance

Purpose

Help the visitor recognise herself.

Suggested copy

This is for you if you’ve ever felt like you are health-conscious, but still stuck.

Maybe you want to train, but you’re unsure if your form is right.
Maybe you want nutrition structure, but not another restrictive diet.

Maybe your energy, cravings and motivation shift across the month, and you want to understand what your body is telling you.

You don’t need more extremes.
You need support, structure and a plan that fits your life.

Visual direction

Use a soft card layout with three short statements:

- “I don’t know what to do at the gym.”
- “I want nutrition structure, not another diet.”
- “My energy changes across my cycle.”

---

Section 3 — The method

Purpose

Explain the three pillars clearly.

Pillars

1. Strength
2. Onsite training
3. Posture and technique
4. Progressive strength
5. Confidence in movement
6. Nutrition
7. Macro-informed meal structure
8. Realistic meal suggestions
9. Protein and energy guidance
10. Support without restriction
11. Cycle awareness
12. Tracking patterns
13. Adjusting expectations

14. Supporting energy, appetite and recovery
15. Flexible, not dogmatic

Suggested copy

The goal is not to follow a perfect plan.
The goal is to understand your body well enough to build routines you can actually keep.

Visual direction

Use three cards or columns.
Each pillar can have a simple line icon:

- dumbbell / strong line
- plate / nourishment
- moon phases / cycle wheel

Section 4 — Package breakdown

Purpose

Show exactly what is included.

Title

Strong Through Your Cycle
A 4-week women’s strength and nutrition foundation.

Layout

Use a timeline or step-by-step vertical flow.

Steps

1. Digital intake and goal-setting call
2. Onsite nutrition coaching + first training session
3. Two additional onsite training sessions
4. Weekly digital check-ins
5. Final onsite progress test and measurements

Include

- 1 digital intake call
- 3 onsite personal training sessions
- 1 final onsite strength and measurement review
- nutrition coaching session

- macro-informed meal suggestions
- weekly digital check-ins
- next-step recommendations

CTA

Founding client spots are limited — apply for one now.

---

Section 5 — Who it is for / not for

Purpose

Pre-qualify clients and protect brand boundaries.

For you if:

- you are a woman in Berlin
- you want to build strength safely
- you want personal guidance with form and posture
- you want realistic nutrition support
- you are tired of all-or-nothing dieting
- you want to understand your cycle without obsessing over it
- you want structure and accountability

Not for you if:

- you want a quick-fix transformation
- you want a restrictive diet plan
- you want medical nutrition therapy
- you are looking for diagnosis or treatment of hormonal conditions
- you are not open to strength training

Scope note

This coaching is for general fitness and nutrition support. It does not replace medical care, dietetic treatment or therapy.

---

Section 6 — About Mila

Purpose

Create connection and trust.

Suggested copy

For most of my life, I was health-conscious — but still struggling.

I cared about eating well, building routines and feeling good in my body, but weight management and consistency never felt simple. After years of dieting, I reached a point where I knew I needed real support.

Working with a personal trainer and a nutritionist helped me build structure, strength and confidence in a way motivation alone never could.

Now I'm building Strong With Mila to help other women feel supported in that same process — with training, nutrition and body literacy that feels realistic, not extreme.

Visual direction

- Warm portrait
- Casual Berlin setting or calm neutral background
- Not a gym flex photo
- Could include a handwritten-style note: "support changed everything"

Editability requirement

Mila should be able to easily edit the About section text and image later, because this story may evolve as the brand and certifications develop.

---

Section 7 — Why cycle-aware, not cycle-obsessed

Purpose

Differentiate from overhyped cycle-syncing content.

Suggested copy

Cycle-aware coaching does not mean changing your entire workout and food routine every week.

It means noticing patterns in your energy, appetite, recovery, sleep and motivation — then using that information to adjust intelligently.

Your cycle is data, not a rulebook.

Visual direction

- Simple moon/cycle diagram
- Soft educational "notebook science" layout
- Small labels around a circular graphic

Section 8 — Limited founding client CTA

Purpose

Convert.

Suggested copy

Limited founding client spots are available.

I’m looking for a small number of women in Berlin who want to test the Strong Through Your Cycle method and receive a reduced founding-client price in exchange for feedback and testimonials.

CTA button

Apply for a limited founding client spot

Alternative CTA

Send me a message on Instagram: @strongwithmila

---

Section 9 — FAQ

Suggested FAQs

Do I need experience with strength training?
No. This package is especially suitable for beginners or women returning to training.

Where do the onsite sessions happen?
In Berlin. Exact location/private studio/gym details to be confirmed.

Is this a weight-loss programme?
Not specifically. The focus is strength, structure, nutrition habits and confidence. Body composition goals can be discussed, but the approach is not extreme or restrictive.

Do you provide meal plans?
I provide realistic meal suggestions, nutrition targets and macro-informed meal structure. I do not provide medical diet plans.

Can you help with PCOS, endometriosis, thyroid issues or fertility?
I can support general training and lifestyle habits, but I do not diagnose or treat medical conditions. For clinical concerns, I will recommend working with a doctor or registered dietitian.

Is this only for women with regular cycles?
No. Cycle-aware support can still include tracking energy, appetite, recovery and symptoms. The approach is flexible and individual.

How much does it cost?
Founding client price to be announced. Later standard pricing expected around €599 for the 4-week package.

How can I enquire?
You can apply through the website form, email strongwithmila@gmail.com or send a message on Instagram at @strongwithmila.

7. Visual identity requirements

Colour palette

Main background:
Soft Cream — `#F7F3EE`

Secondary neutral / cards:
Warm Off-White — `#EDE7E1`

Primary brand colour:
Deep Plum — `#4B1F3B`

Body text / strength education:
Dark Brown — `#3A2A24`

Body literacy:
Navy — `#26364A`

Nutrition:
Forest Green — `#3F5F4A`

Myth busting / warning / contrast:
Muted Burgundy — `#8A3F4D`

Method / warm accent:
Clay — `#C47A5A`

Colour usage

- Use `#F7F3EE` as the dominant background.
- Use `#4B1F3B` for logo, primary headings and CTAs.
- Use `#EDE7E1` for cards, section dividers and subtle background blocks.

- Use pillar colours sparingly for icons, tags, section accents or content categories.
- Use `#3A2A24` for readable body text.

8. Typography

Fonts

Playfair Display
Use for main headlines, hero titles and editorial statements.

Montserrat
Use for body copy, navigation, buttons, labels, cards, captions and functional text.

Allura
Use only for small handwritten-style accents, notes or emotional details.

Suggested hierarchy

Hero H1:
Playfair Display, 56–72 px desktop, 38–46 px mobile

Section headings:
Playfair Display, 40–52 px desktop, 32–38 px mobile

Subheadings:
Montserrat SemiBold, 20–26 px desktop, 18–22 px mobile

Body copy:
Montserrat Regular, 16–18 px desktop, 16 px mobile

Buttons:
Montserrat SemiBold, 14–16 px, slight letter spacing

Small labels:
Montserrat Medium/SemiBold, 12–14 px, uppercase, letter-spaced

Handwritten notes:
Allura, variable; use sparingly and never for important information

---

9. Imagery and graphic style

Direction

The visual language should feel like:

biology class + women’s health magazine + calm PT studio + personal notes.

Preferred visuals

- simple line diagrams
- moon phase/cycle graphics
- body literacy illustrations
- anatomical-style sketches
- soft portraits
- notebook-style annotations
- subtle Berlin lifestyle imagery
- calm studio/gym detail shots
- hands writing notes
- meal structure diagrams
- clean icons

Avoid

- neon gym colours
- aggressive transformation photos
- before/after-heavy messaging
- stock photos of women laughing with salads
- generic dumbbell hero images
- oversexualised fitness imagery
- medical-looking visuals that imply treatment
- influencer-style posing as the main visual direction

---

10. Functional requirements

Version 1 minimum features

- Responsive single-page landing page
- Anchor navigation
- Hero section with CTA
- Package explanation
- About section
- FAQ
- Contact/enquiry form
- Instagram link to @strongwithmila
- Email contact link to strongwithmila@gmail.com

- Mobile-first design
- Basic SEO metadata
- Fast loading
- Accessible colour contrast
- Privacy/legal links if collecting form data

Contact form fields

- Name
- Email
- Instagram handle optional
- Location in Berlin
- Main goal
- Training experience
- Nutrition goal
- Any relevant health considerations
- Preferred contact method
- Consent checkbox for being contacted

CTA behaviour

Primary CTA should lead to the application/contact form.

Possible CTA text:

- Apply for a limited founding client spot
- Join the limited founding client list
- Enquire about coaching
- Start your 4-week foundation

Optional integrations

- Calendly or TidyCal for consultation calls
- Google Forms / Typeform / Tally for application form
- Instagram DM link to @strongwithmila
- Email link to strongwithmila@gmail.com
- Email newsletter/waitlist later
- Simple analytics

---

11. Content management needs

Mila should be able to easily edit:

- package price
- package availability
- limited founding spot messaging

- About section text
- About section image
- CTA text
- FAQ
- testimonials
- location details
- Instagram link / handle
- email address
- application form link
- course/certification details later

A CMS is optional for version 1. Static content is acceptable if easy to update.

12. SEO basics

Suggested page title

Strong With Mila | Women’s Strength & Nutrition Coaching in Berlin

Suggested meta description

Women-focused personal training, nutrition coaching and cycle-aware support in Berlin. Build strength, structure and confidence without extremes.

Keywords to naturally include

- women’s strength coach Berlin
- personal trainer Berlin women
- women’s personal training Berlin
- nutrition coaching Berlin
- cycle-aware training
- strength and nutrition coaching
- English-speaking personal trainer Berlin
- women’s fitness coaching Berlin

---

13. Accessibility requirements

- Body text must be readable on mobile.
- Avoid very low-contrast text on coloured backgrounds.
- Do not use Allura for essential information.
- Buttons should have clear hover/focus states.
- Form labels should be visible, not placeholder-only.
- Images should include alt text.
- Content should be readable without relying only on colour.

14. Reference websites and what to take from them

Train with Amanda

Useful for Berlin market positioning, women-focused strength coaching, hormone-health language, private PT pricing and clear offer structure. Do not copy the visual style directly, but study how the offer is explained and priced.

FitrWoman

Useful for cycle-aware education and the idea of connecting menstrual cycle awareness with training, nutrition and performance. Good reference for cycle-related visuals and science-to-practice language.

Kirsten Oddy Women's Health Coaching

Useful for how cycle tracking and women's health coaching can be explained in a gentle, educational way. Good reference for scope-conscious wording.

SiteBuilderReport / Colorlib personal trainer examples

Useful for layout patterns: hero, benefits, services, testimonials, FAQ and CTA flow. These are inspiration libraries, not direct brand references.

Visual mood

The site should look less like a commercial gym website and more like a calm editorial wellness/education brand.

Reference mood keywords:

- editorial wellness
- women's health magazine
- scientific notebook
- calm strength studio
- warm premium minimalism
- body literacy education

15. Suggested homepage wireframe

1. Hero
2. Problem/resonance
3. The 3-pillar method
4. Package breakdown
5. Who it is for

6. About Mila
7. Cycle-aware explanation
8. Limited founding client CTA
9. FAQ
10. Contact/application form
11. Footer

---

16. Footer requirements

Footer should include:

- logo or wordmark
- Instagram link: @strongwithmila
- email/contact link: strongwithmila@gmail.com
- Berlin, Germany
- privacy policy link
- imprint/legal notice link if public in Germany
- short disclaimer: “Coaching does not replace medical advice, diagnosis or treatment.”

---

17. Success criteria

The website is successful if a first-time visitor can understand within 10 seconds:

- who Mila helps
- what she offers
- where it happens
- why it is women-focused
- what makes it different from generic PT
- how to enquire or apply for a limited founding client spot

The site should make Mila feel trustworthy, warm, knowledgeable and structured — even before she has a large client portfolio.

---

18. Version 1 priority

Do not overbuild.

The first version should prioritise:

1. clear messaging
2. beautiful mobile experience
3. strong CTA
4. simple application flow

5. visual consistency with Instagram
6. easy future updates

Avoid spending too much time on:

- blog functionality
- complex animations
- full booking/payment system
- client portal
- heavy video backgrounds
- large custom backend

Those can come later.
